

Abstract

The present invention refers to stents for use in the non-vascular and vascular field, which comprise an SMP material.